

Connie Geerts

B. SOUTHWESTERN
ONTARIO
LIVES & WORKS IN CALGARY

ABOUT

Born in rural Ontario, Connie Geerts is a contemporary Canadian painter and sculptor whose work is inspired by the beauty, rhythm, and vitality of the natural world. Now living and working in Calgary, Alberta, Geerts has cultivated a multidisciplinary practice that explores the expressive possibilities of colour, light, and texture through both painting and mixed-media sculpture.

Working primarily in acrylic, Geerts creates vibrant landscapes and botanical compositions that balance bold colour with delicate, layered brushwork. Influenced by the Fauvist movement, Vincent van Gogh, and Wolf Kahn, her paintings transform familiar natural forms into luminous, contemporary interpretations that evoke atmosphere and emotion rather than literal representation. Her distinctive brushwork, reminiscent of fragmented digital imagery, creates a dynamic visual language that invites viewers to slow down and discover new relationships between colour, form, and movement.

Alongside her painting practice, Geerts is an accomplished sculptor working in cast glass, resin, and mixed media, bringing the same sensitivity to colour and transparency into three-dimensional form. Whether working in two or three dimensions, her practice is united by a celebration of nature's quiet beauty and an enduring fascination with the ways colour can shape perception, memory, and mood. Her work has been exhibited throughout Canada and is held in numerous private and corporate collections.
