LIVES & WORKS IN CALGARY

ABOUT

Born in Edmonton and now based in Calgary, Alberta, Jessamyn Box creates vibrant abstract paintings that explore the relationship between colour, texture, and form. Working with acrylic paint, marker, charcoal, crayon, ink, and spray paint, Box builds layered compositions filled with movement, spontaneity, and emotion, inviting viewers to form their own personal connections within the work.

Primarily self-taught, Box's creative path began in music and theatre before evolving into a dedicated painting practice. After relocating to Vancouver in 2010, she attended abstract painting workshops at Emily Carr University of Art and Design, an experience that solidified her decision to pursue painting full-time.

Inspired by the textures and imperfections of urban and industrial spaces, Box transforms everyday details into dynamic, colour-driven compositions that feel both playful and expressive. Her work embraces freedom, intuition, and a sense of whimsical recklessness, balancing disorder and harmony across the canvas.

Today, Box exhibits throughout Canada and the United States, with work held in private and corporate collections including the Vancouver General Hospital and the University of British Columbia Hospital Foundation. She is represented by Gibson Fine Art and several galleries across North America.
